Agnieszka Ason is an independent energy disputes lawyer and a Visiting Research Fellow at the Oxford Institute for Energy Studies. Agnieszka has extensive experience (as counsel and expert) in liquefied natural gas (LNG) disputes, including major LNG price reviews in European and Asian markets. She is an Honorary Lecturer at the Queen Mary University of London and frequently guest lectures in energy law and international dispute resolution, most recently at the Humboldt University of Berlin and the London School of Economics. Agnieszka has published extensively and provided press comments on LNG contracting. Her recent speaking engagements focus on the impact of decarbonisation on long-term energy contracts and include presentations for the Institute of Energy Economics Japan (IEEJ), United States Energy Association (USEA), the International Group of Liquefied Natural Gas Importers (GIIGNL), and S&P Global Platts. Agnieszka is the editor of the Oil, Gas and Energy Law (OGEL) Special Issue on Changing LNG Markets and Contracts (2020) and co-editor (with Professor Kim Talus) of the upcoming OGEL Special Issue on Carbon-neutral Energy.
